SOCIALREPORT2020
cospe

Who we are

COSPE is a non-profit association promoting international cooperation, operating in Italy and 25 other countries in Europe, Africa, the Mediterranean and Latin America. COSPE is committed to the transition towards a world of peace, with more rights, more social and environmental justice, under the banner of gender equality, where diversity is recognised as the most precious asset.

Vision

We work for a world of many voices where diversity is highly valued, where meeting and exchanging with others enriches all. A world where people can live in dignity with equal rights, opportunities, access to basic goods and services offered by nature, society and economic development.

Mission

We promote dialogue between individuals and communities, for a world where peace reigns, human rights are respected, democracy rules, and social justice and environmental sustainability are promoted. We aim to attain gender equality, women's rights and eliminate all kinds of discrimination.

Our challenges

WOMEN AND DEMOCRACY: We work for the promotion of women's rights, gender equality and more broadly for the democratic and participatory renewal of forms of government and power management.

MIGRATIONS: We fight against discrimination, but also and above all for the political, social and economic inclusion of migrants. We believe in building open, inclusive, and multi-cultural societies, capable of making the most of their diversity.

ENVIRONMENT AND NEW ECONOMIES: we are committed to giving the earth back its centrality, to changing the way we produce and consume food, putting the health of eco-systems, local economies and people first.

Women and Democracy

Our activities related to this challenge involved a total of 17,847 people (6208 men and 11,571 women, 68 other gender) and 222 organizations (3677 people belonging to the organizations that participated in the activities, of which 2558 were women).

THEMES (NO. PROJECTS)

Freedom of expression and manifestation

Independent media

Gender inequalities are the oldest and remain among the most hateful and pervasive in all countries of the world. Democracy cannot be considered complete until women are exercising their rights in decision-making, in the family as in society and until when the LGBTQIA+ persons' rights are not respected. This is why we support the creation and growth of women's associations, the development of their economic and social autonomy and their political leadership everywhere. At the same time, we are working to broaden the spaces for participation in public and democratic life for people at risk of exclusion, as well as to promote Human Rights and support the Human Rights Defenders. Finally, we stand shoulder to shoulder with children and their families to offer equal opportunities for access to school and to extracurricular cultural and recreational services, convinced that social exclusion and inequalities contribute to the educational poverty.

The work areas of this challenge have been declined as follows:

- women's rights and gender equity
- human rights
- right to participate in public life

WOMEN'S RIGHTS AND GENDER EQUITY

The gender perspective aims to be a cross-cutting approach to all COSPE challenges and projects as a policy perspective that addresses gender inequalities and the violation of women's rights. It is important to note that women are the majority of people involved in all our projects (61.3%).

In this specific area we have worked on three main axes:

■ Empowerment creation and strengthening of women's groups, especially in the rural area.

■ Advocacy on public policies drawing up women's agendas and carrying out pilot actions deriving from the agendas, promoting inter-institutional tables that give representation in terms of decision making and public speech to groups of women normally marginalized.

■ Spaces and services opening of spaces / services for women in addition to the start-up of economic activities - namely in the agricultural sector - and specific areas of advice / support for women in situations of vulnerability).

1409 WOMEN INVOLVED
of which 97% in rural areas

42 interinstitutional tables supported

11 new spaces and services created
8 new spaces and services supported

HUMAN RIGHTS

Human Rights and their formal recognition are a cross-cutting theme to all COSPE challenges and in our work, two predominant trends emerge:

- Formal recognition of Human Rights;
- Recognition of the collective dimension of rights.

In both cases COSPE has worked alongside activists, civil, social and economic rights associations to support appeals, requests, interpellations, petitions and other advocacy actions to facilitate access to rights and their full exercise in various parts of the world.

9 OF THE 29 REGISTERED PROJECTS

directly support human rights activists, divided as follows:

4 SOUTHERN AFRICA

- 103 aspecific support actions
- 4 shadow-reports
- 3 other reports to international organizations (carried out by COSPE)

3 MIDDLE EAST

RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE IN PUBLIC LIFE

In 2020, the year of the pandemic that hit the whole world indiscriminately, in which internal and international mobility was seriously hampered, the projects did not stop and invested heavily in the so-called capacity building activities, accompaniment, training and strengthening of associative, formal and informal structures.

Here are some data:

Migration

The change we want is to promote the recognition of rights, inclusive reception and full citizenship of migrants, refugees, and minorities.

ORGANIZATIONS INVOLVED

THEMES (NO. PROJECTS)

We live in a world of voluntary and forced migration: new types, sizes and dissemination, which endanger not only the lives of millions of people who move, but also our ability to see a person and not a threat in the “other”. For us, the answer to this epochal challenge is to globalize rights, guaranteeing them also to migrants in the countries of origin, transit and arrival. The aim is to maintain as the ultimate horizon the construction of inclusive, multicultural and open societies, capable of making diversity due their own richness.

The work areas of this challenge have been declined as follows:

- Reception and integration of migrants: in the field of work, training and language and social learning / socialization;
- Fight against racism: telephone hotline, mediation services, contacts and networks with reception centres;
- Actions with social media: information campaigns on the risks of irregular migration and training and employment opportunities in the areas affected by the projects, training journalists about the representation of immigration in the media, pressure on the Italian and European media for greater openness on diversity, pressure for access by foreign journalists in the editorial offices.

RECEPTION AND INTEGRATION OF MIGRANTS

Workplace

We worked mainly in Italy, Senegal, Niger and Lebanon in some specific areas, in Senegal we obtained the most interesting results: here, 2 specific projects were active in favour of returning migrants, young women and young people at risk of marginalization – while in Italy the only specific project that concerned unaccompanied foreign minors generated only one insertion as a paid internship and no one who has found stable work.

two specific projects were active (DEFI and Certezze Giovani).

SENEGAL CASE

223 people involved
(84 women)
116 people found work
(45 women)

In Italy, despite the lockdown, Italian language learning courses continued and 3 courses were organized with 29 participants in total, of which 6 unaccompanied foreign minors and a woman. 5 persons have obtained the certification of knowledge of the Italian language, one of which is a unaccompanied foreign minor.

SUPPORT ACTIVITIES FOR MIGRANTS

2.053 people involved in Italy, Senegal, Niger and Lebanon
(70% women and 16% unaccompanied foreign minors)

302 partner organizations and various stakeholders took part in the projects

SENEGAL CASE

1.255 people involved
(590 women)
85 people have abandoned
(35 women)

Social field / socialization

We worked in Italy in the organization of exchange meetings between young native and of foreign origin when it was possible through sports tournaments, photography courses, visits to museums and exhibitions; testing of Italian courses also for women migrants in situations that could facilitate the exchange and knowledge of the context and the development of social support networks.

ACTIONS REALIZED

174 people involved
(78 women and 109 unaccompanied foreign minors)
of total:
8% sports and leisure activities
60,3% in events
31,7% in cultural activities

FIGHT TO RACISM

The action to support the victims of racism started at the beginning of 2020 with the opening of the telephone hotline but with the lockdown it was decided to turn into a useful number for non-Italian citizens or in any case all those who had difficulty in having information on income support measures that had been taken with the lockdown. A mediation service was also activated, new contacts with the reception centres, the contact with the network of women who had already been involved in Italian courses in the project "Concertazioni", as well as specific accompaniments were carried out.

ACTIONS WITH SOCIAL MEDIA

9 actions were implemented, of which 7 in Italy/Europe and 2 in Senegal in 2020. The latter are related to information campaigns about the risks of irregular migration and especially on training and employment opportunities in the areas covered by the projects "MIGRA" and "Certezze Giovani". The training to journalists about the representation of immigration in the media continued, whenever possible, as during the "Terra di Tutti Film Festival", and in streaming. Some thematic webinars were organized, such as "Africa No News" which had 8819 interactions (314 reactions of which 41 shares, and 490 clicks of which 79 on the Meet link); the webinar illustrated the data of the third report "Illuminate the Suburbs" realized by COSPE and stressed that, even in the pan-democratic period and despite the global phenomenon, Italian information has remained anchored to the news about our country and little more. At project level, however, the constant work of pressure on the Italian and European media continued, to gain visibility and prominence by minorities generated by immigration, by second generations and in general for a greater openness on the diversity that inhabit our society.

The participation of the Italian TV RAI in the project "New Neighbours" as well as the creation of the "RAI for Social" network, seems to go in the direction indicated by COSPE for several years now. Finally, the presence of foreign journalists, although still a minority, in the editorial boards of some newspapers is also the result of a pioneering work started by COSPE in 2005, contributing to the understanding of the value of intercultural perspectives and competences.

organizations that have benefited from the activity

The relationship developed on the theme of Migration have been many and varied. As many as 146 partners with whom COSPE collaborated in 2020. Among these partners there are 124 associations active both in the social and educational fields, as well as in the fight against discrimination and in socio-work integration. There are first or second generation migrant associations in Italy and in various European countries. Capacity building activities, on the other hand, appear to be largely concentrated in foreign countries - Senegal, Niger and Lebanon - where we have worked to strengthen local associations active on the issue of migration. Associations sometimes made up of returning migrants, but also local NGOs working on transit, with young people in a situation of socio-economic vulnerability and at risk of irregular migration.

THEMES (NO. PROJECTS)

The interweaving of climate changes and the increase in inequalities, in a world that in a few decades has seen its population triple, puts at great risk the stability of the ecosystems and the right to a dignified life for an increasing number of people. Our answer to this global challenge is to support an ecological and social transition of both economy and lifestyles, of the relations between genders with nature, centred on social and solidarity economy networks, to promote new economies and markets as a tool of balanced and fair development.

The work areas of this challenge have been declined as follows:

■ Communities' rights: recognition of community ownership of land and recognition of the right of access and sustainable management of natural resources, awareness of communities' rights;

■ New economies: strengthening of organizations and producers for access to the market within the principles of the Social Solidarity Economy, labor rights, women's rights, access to land, building networks and improve their social and environmental performance within supply chains;

■ Agroecological transition and climate change: participatory selection of seeds, management of natural resources, including water resources, actions aimed at promoting participatory adaptation to climate change.

ACHIEVED RESULTS

(22.845 women and 18.329 men 129 another gender)

in 19 countries

COMMUNITIES' RIGHTS:

Recognition of community ownership of land and of their right of access and sustainable management of natural resources, is a very important issue, however in 2020 it affected a small number of people and projects focused a lot more on training. The impact is assessed positively mainly in terms of greater awareness of rights.

NEW ECONOMIES

In 2020, COSPE continued to work in the field of Social and Solidarity Economy strengthening organizations and producers for market access, labor rights, women's rights, access to land and building networks and to improve their social and environmental performance within supply chains.

The areas where most action have been taken are the Mediterranean, especially the Maghreb, and Latin America, particularly in the Andean countries. A specific work on the market analysis and the critical issues affecting economic stakeholders was carried out in West Africa (Senegal), namely in a period, such as that of the first pandemic phase, which profoundly changed the structures and functioning of the local market.

PRODUCTION CHAINS

127 actions carried out

19.525 people involved

AGROECOLOGICAL TRANSITION AND CLIMATE CHANGE

As far as agroecological conversion is concerned, the 2020 data give us very positive results of COSPE action in various countries. First of all, the participatory selection of seeds, tested in Niger, Angola, Albania and eSwatini, has provided positive feedback. The actions related to the management of natural resources and the recovery of degraded areas, according to the evaluations of the degree of achievement of the results, have had a positive impact from an environmental sustainability point of view with about 120 hectares of land in which land arrangements have been made to increase the collection of rainwater in Niger and the participatory management of natural resources that involved a total of 473 people, including 338 women. On the other hand, the contribution of these actions in terms of revitalization of the productive fabric and generation of revenues is considered to be limited.

in 2020, in particular through the drafting and implementation of participatory plans for adaptation to climate change, which involved 2,607 people, of which 65% are women, and which has led, according to the assessment of the degree of achievement of the objectives, to a considerable impact in terms of adopting effective measures for adaptation to climate change. These measures include the adoption of crops and varieties that are more resistant to dry conditions and the collection of rainwater in small-scale overlay for irrigation use.

Among these measures are the adoption of crops and varieties more resistant to arid conditions and the collection of rainwater in small-scale reservoirs for irrigation use.

For the projects relating to challenge "Environment and new economies", there are 194 organizations surveyed of which 76 in Southern Africa, 37 in the Maghreb countries, 27 in the Middle East, 21 in Latin America, 19 in West Africa, 9 in the Balkans, none in Europe. Among the prevailing work themes, the economy - Ess, circular economy, supply chains, tourism, cooperativism, with 133 organizations out of 194, ecological transition and adaptation to climate change (78) and the rights of communities and territories (13). The approaches are very complex and range from participatory management of resources to adaptation (41) to climate change (33), from the agroecological transition of production chains (98) to the conversion of production systems (33) and the recovery of degraded land (3).; from cooperativism (56) to labor rights (12) and advocacy for a favorable regulatory environment (10); from actions for the recognition of the right to natural resources (9) to those for community ownership of land (3).
